Introduction

Welcome to the 12th Edition of the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) State Options Report. This report summarizes information related to State policy and administrative options.

SNAP's statutes, regulations, and waivers provide State agencies with various policy options. State agencies use this flexibility to adapt their programs to meet the needs of eligible, low-income households in their States. In addition to long-standing options, modernization and technology have provided States with new opportunities and options in administering the program that can facilitate improved customer service. Certain options may further program design goals, such as removing or reducing barriers to access for low-income families and individuals, providing better support for those working or looking for work. This flexibility helps States better target benefits to those most in need, streamline program administration and field operations, and coordinate SNAP activities with those of other programs.

The Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) surveys State agencies administering SNAP to determine which options are in use. Information about State agency choices among options is subject to frequent change. This report catalogs options in effect as of October 1, 2015. Options are sometimes fluid as States modify their business practices to meet changing needs and several States have reported plans to implement various options at later dates. Those changes will be reflected in future editions of this report.

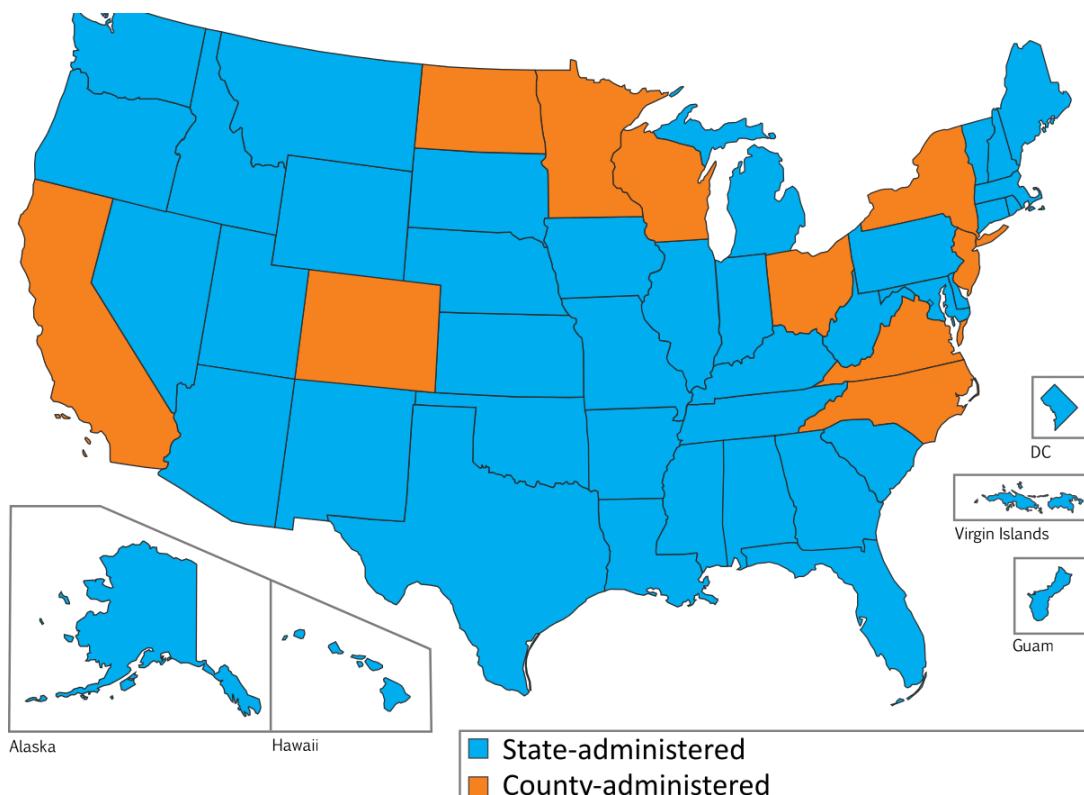

Some readers may use the State Options Report to compare State options in use from year to year as many of the same options are often reflected. In addition to the many familiar pages, a new page reflected in the 12th Edition includes Demonstrations for the Elderly and Disabled. The Elderly Simplified Application Project (ESAP) and the Standard Medical Deduction (SMD) are two demonstration projects that target the elderly (aged 60 years and over) and disabled low-income populations. These waivers help reduce administrative burden by streamlining the certification process and administrative procedures.

Section One describes each option, providing a list, and map of the States that have selected the option. Section Two provides a State by State summary of the options each State agency has chosen. Also, as in the 11th Edition, this report includes regulatory citations in the upper right-hand corner of each option profile page. These will help guide the reader to relevant provisions found in Title 7 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

For any questions, corrections, or suggestions about the State Options Report, please contact Sarah Hughes of SNAP's Program Development Division at sarah.hughes@fns.usda.gov.

States have flexibility to adapt their organizational structure to administer SNAP, which allows the States to serve the unique needs of their populations. States may opt to centralize or to decentralize their administrative responsibilities for SNAP. In their State Plan of Operations, States provide a description of their organizational structure, including whether the program is State, county, locally, or regionally administered. Currently, ten States share SNAP administration with county agencies. The remaining 43 state agencies are State-administered.

Reporting Requirements

273.12(a)

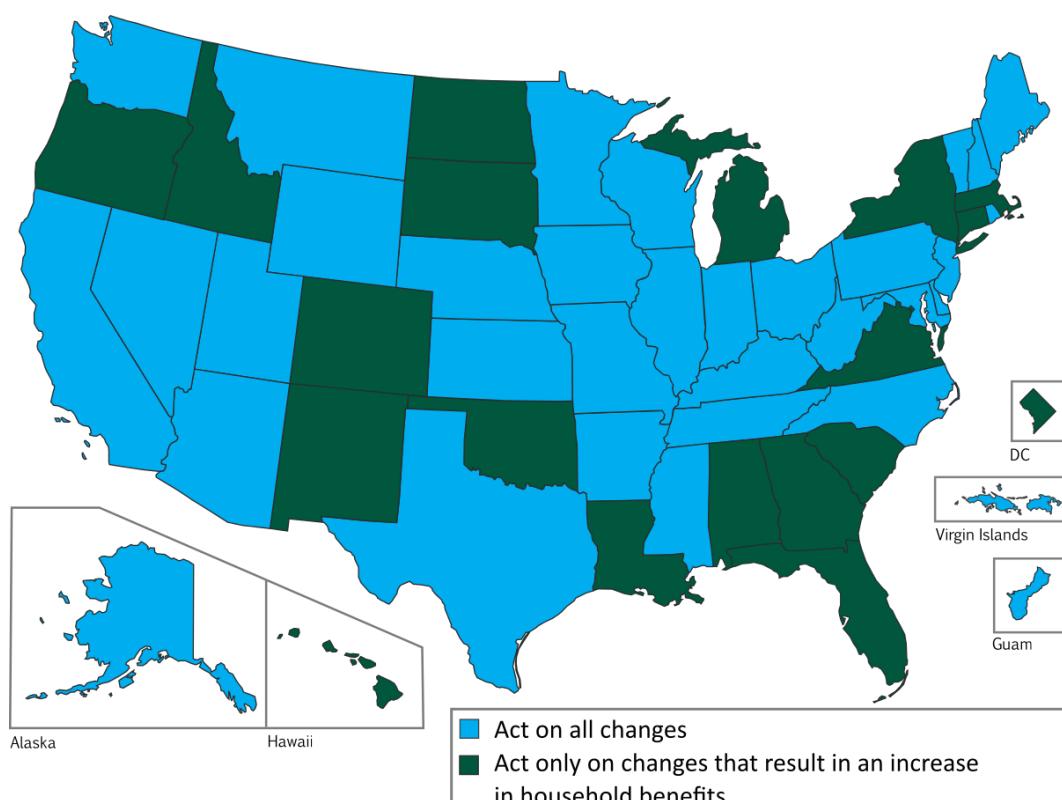

State agencies have the option of requiring SNAP recipients to report household circumstances at various intervals and in various ways. State agencies can use different reporting systems for different types of households, or different geographical areas, but each household is subject to only one reporting system. Recipients may be required to report changes periodically or within a certain time, typically within 10 days, after certain changes in circumstances occur (known as change reporting). Under periodic reporting, participants report either monthly, quarterly, or using a simplified system with reduced reporting requirements. Under the Simplified Reporting option, households are required to report changes in income between certification and scheduled reporting periods when total countable income rises above 130 percent of the poverty level or when work hours for able-bodied adults without dependents fall below 20 hours per week.

Simplified Reporting only (28)			Simplified & Change Reporting (24)			Simplified, Change, & Monthly Reporting (1)
Alabama	Maine	South Dakota	Alaska	Kansas	Oklahoma
Connecticut	Maryland	Tennessee	Arizona	Massachusetts	Oregon
Delaware	Mississippi	Texas	Arkansas	Michigan	Rhode Island

Indiana	North Dakota	Washington	Florida	New Jersey
Iowa	Ohio	Wyoming	Hawaii	New York
Kentucky	Pennsylvania		Illinois	North Carolina
Louisiana	South Carolina

Under simplified reporting, State agencies have the option to act on all changes reported during the certification period, or to act only on certain changes that result in an increase in household benefits. States which have chosen to act on all changes must act to verify any changes reported and take appropriate action, even if this change reduces the client's benefit. This option allows States that have combined SNAP/Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) programs to more seamlessly integrate. It avoids a situation where the TANF program has acted on a change, but SNAP has not, and decreases caseworker burden by aligning the programs.

Simplified Reporting—Certification Length

273.12(a)(5)

Households certified for SNAP for longer than 6 months must submit a periodic report at least once every 6 months, but no more than once every 4 months during the certification period. Some State agencies have opted to certify Simplified Reporting households for 12 months, with a periodic report at 6 months. Others have opted to certify these households for 6 months. Households in which all members are elderly or disabled with no earned income may be given 12 month certification periods without periodic reporting, or 24 month certification periods with a 12 month periodic reporting requirement.

Simplified Income and Resources

273.8(e)(19)

273.9(c)(19)

State agencies have the option to exclude some types of income and resources by aligning SNAP policy with the TANF or Medicaid policy. Income not counted under TANF or Section 1931 of the Social Security Act, which authorized Medicaid, can be excluded with some exceptions. The exceptions include wages, salaries, self-employment income, benefits from major assistance programs, regular payments from a government source, worker's compensation, child support payments, and other types of income determined countable to ensure fairness in eligibility determinations. The same option exists for the treatment of resources. A number of resources cannot be excluded when using this option, including cash, licensed vehicles, and readily available amounts in financial institutions.

Simplified Self-Employment Determination

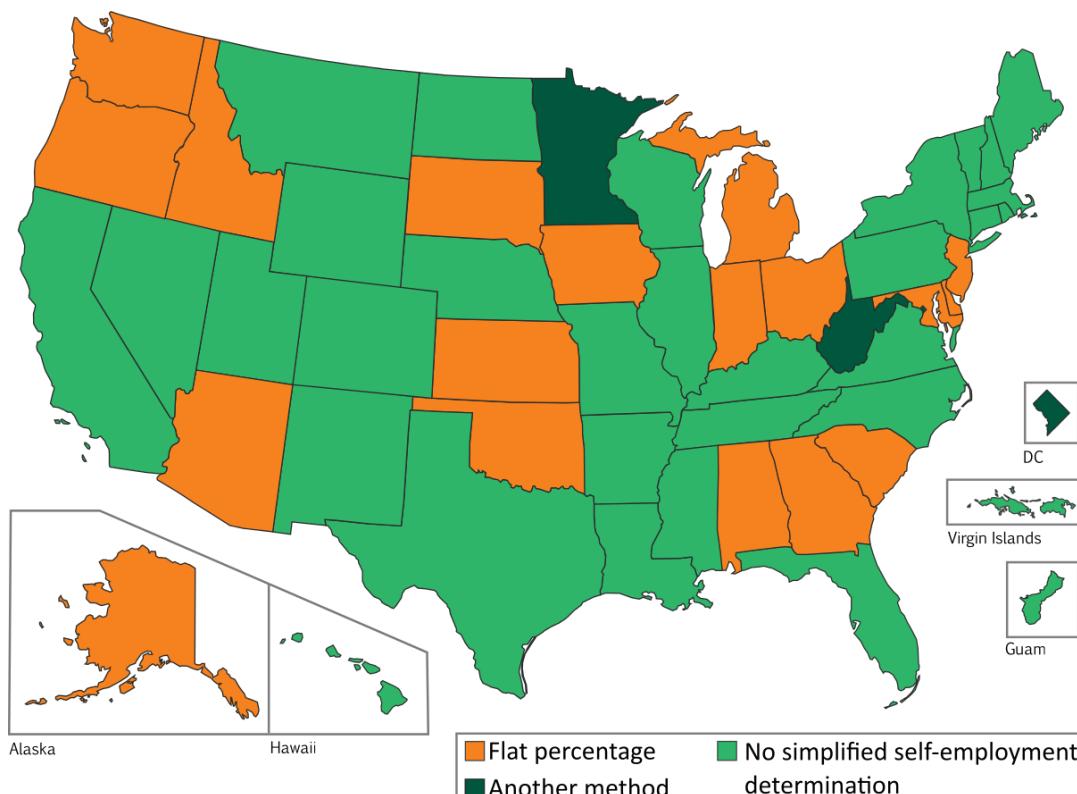

273.11(b)

States have the option to adopt a simplified method for determining the cost of doing business in cases where an applicant is self-employed. Should a State decide to adopt a simplified method, the State agency has flexibility to develop a method to calculate this cost – a flat percentage, a figure based on average costs, or some other method. Some States use different figures/methods for different types of self-employment. At present, 21 States have adopted a simplified method for determining the costs of doing business for self-employed applicant income. Of these, 18 use a flat percentage of gross income applied to all types of self-employment.

Simplified Homeless Housing Cost

273.9(d)(6)(i)

States have the option to use a standard deduction from income of $143 per month for homeless households with some shelter expenses. This option streamlines the process for States and applicants who are homeless, as they are not requested to itemize specific costs. However, homeless households may claim actual expenses if they are higher and verified.

Standard Utility Allowances (SUAs)

273.9(d)(6)(iii)

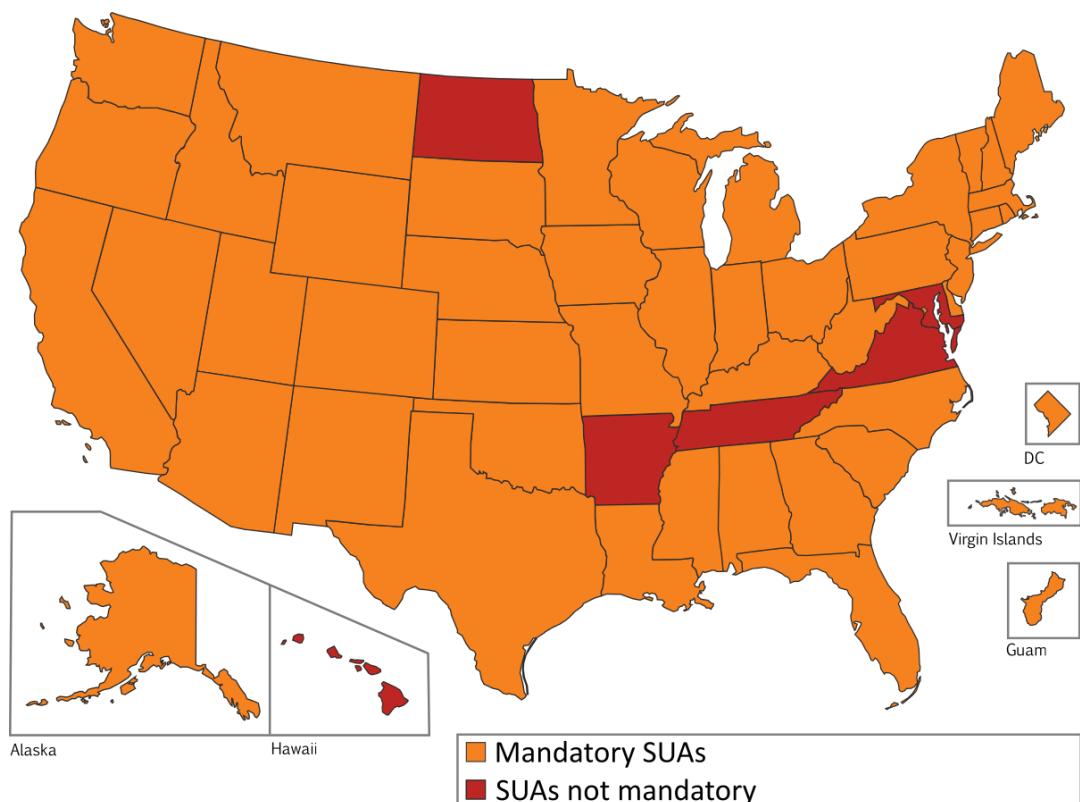

State agencies electing to use SUAs for all households in place of actual utility costs can opt to make their SUA mandatory. By taking this option, the State opts out of the requirement to prorate SUAs for households that share living space. In addition, this option requires that States use a SUA that includes the heating and cooling costs of public housing residents with shared meters that are charged only for excess utility costs.

State agencies have the option to align their SNAP vehicle policy with their TANF policy when it results in lower attribution of household assets. State agencies may opt to exclude all vehicles or exclude at least one vehicle. The standard exception amount of a vehicle is $4,650, however, State agencies may raise this amount to fair market value to determine the countable resource value of the vehicle.

Treatment of Income and Deductions of Ineligible Non-Citizens

273.11(c)(3)

Although ineligible non-citizens cannot receive SNAP benefits, their income is relevant to the benefit determinations of other eligible household members. If the non-citizen would have been considered ineligible for SNAP prior to Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 (PRWORA), State agencies have the option to either count all, or a prorated share, of that individual's income and deductions when determining the benefit level of the other household members (referred to as category 1 for the purposes of this report). However, if a non-citizen is ineligible for SNAP because of PRWORA, State agencies may either count none, or a pro-rated share, of the individual's income and deductions (referred to as category 2 for the purposes of this report). When a State has chosen a given option, it must be implemented Statewide, and only applies to the income of the ineligible non-citizen, not to other eligible household members.

Child Support Expense Income Exclusion

273.9(d)(5)

273.9(c)(17)

States have the option to treat legally obligated child support payments made to non-household members as an income exclusion rather than as a deduction. This option helps to encourage payment of child support by excluding the amount paid from being considered part of the payer's gross income. States that do not use this option treat legally obligated child support payments made to non-household members as a deduction. States not opting for the income exclusion deduct legally obligated child support payments made per 7 CFR 273.9(d)(5) and 273.9(c)(17).

Comparable Disqualifications

273.11(k)

State agencies may disqualify SNAP applicants or recipients who fail to perform actions required by other Federal, State, or local means tested public assistance programs. A State agency has the option to select the types of disqualifications within a program that it wants to impose on SNAP recipients. Only the individual who committed the violation may be disqualified from SNAP, even if the entire household was disqualified under the rules of the other means-tested program.

Drug Felony Disqualifications

273.11(m)

Welfare reform legislation permanently disqualifies people from SNAP participation if they have been convicted of a Federal or State felony offense, based on behavior which occurred after August 22, 1996, involving the possession, use, or distribution of a controlled substance. State legislatures can opt out of the penalty entirely or choose to impose less severe restrictions through a modified ban. Examples of these modified approaches are 1) limiting the circumstances in which the permanent disqualification applies (such as only when convictions involve the sale of drugs); 2) requiring the person convicted to submit to drug testing; 3) requiring participation in a drug treatment program; and/or 4) imposing a temporary disqualification period. Additional information on modified bans is available in the SNAP State Agency Profiles.

Work Requirements and Disqualification Policy

273.7(f)

SNAP regulations require all non-exempt household members to comply with work requirements, such as registering for work, participating in E&T or workfare program if assigned, and not voluntary quitting a job or reducing hours. Individuals who fail to comply without good cause are ineligible for benefits and disqualified from SNAP for certain periods of time. The minimum periods set by law are 1 month for the first instance, 3 months for the second, and 6 months for the third. The law gives States the options to 1) establish disqualification (DQ) periods longer than the minimums, 2) make the DQ permanent upon the third occurrence, and 3) sanction the entire household if the head of household fails to comply.

Broad Based Categorical Eligibility (BBCE)

273.2(j)(2)(ii)

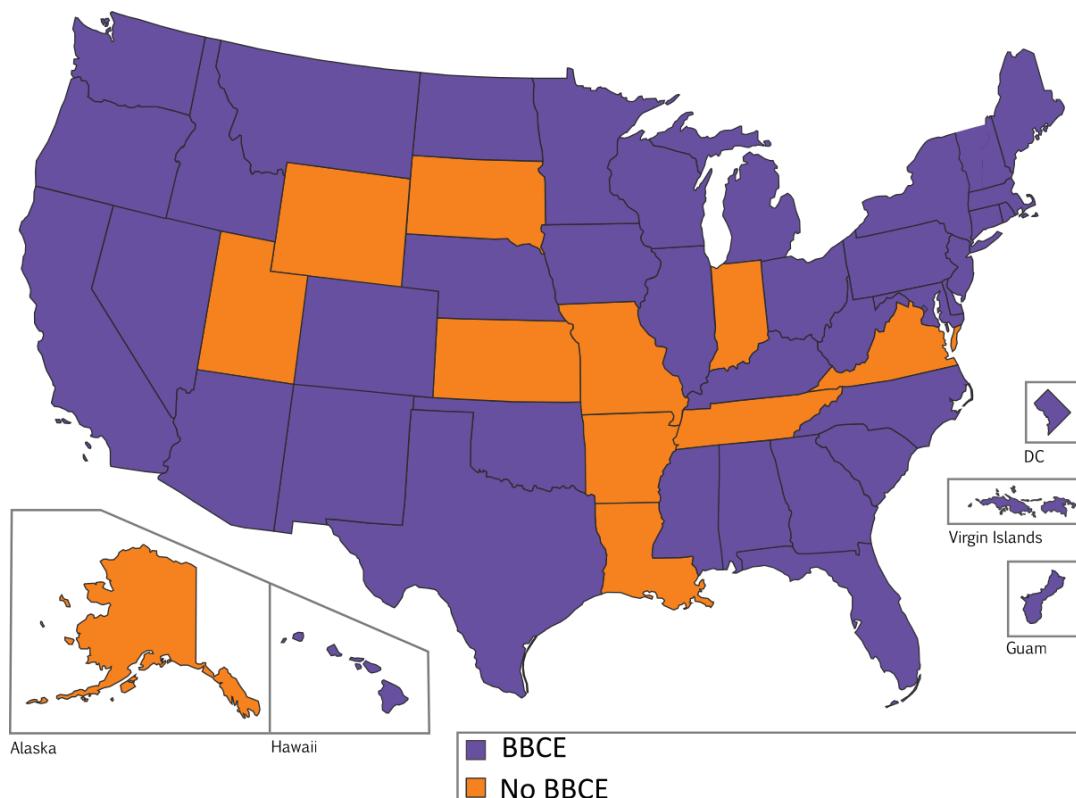

By law, households that receive cash benefits from another means-tested program like Supplemental Social Security Income (SSI), TANF, or General Assistance are categorically eligible for SNAP. States have the option of adopting a policy referred to as BBCE, which expands SNAP categorical eligibility to households that receive non-cash benefits that are funded by TANF or Maintenance of Effort (MOE) funds. Under BBCE, a state aligns its asset and income limits with the TANF non-cash benefit program that confers categorical eligibility. While certain eligibility criteria are deemed for BBCE households, as they are for other categorically eligible households, these households must provide documentation of income and certain expenses in order for benefits to be calculated. BBCE households must also meet all other SNAP rules and have net incomes low enough to qualify for a SNAP benefit.

Transitional Benefits Alternative (TBA)

273.26

State agencies have the option to offer transitional SNAP benefits to families leaving the TANF or State-funded cash assistance programs. Transitional Benefits Alternative (TBA) ensure that such households can continue to meet their nutritional needs as they make the transition from welfare to work. They provide a family a set benefit amount and eliminate reporting requirements during the transition period. Benefits can be continued for up to 5 months at a level equal to the amount the household received prior to TANF termination, with adjustments for the loss of TANF income. Certification periods may be extended so that families receive the full 5 months of benefits. State agencies may choose to exclude households where all members are ineligible to receive SNAP benefits because they fail to comply with laws related to a means-tested program; fail to cooperate with child support agencies; or are delinquent in court-ordered child

Document Imaging

Document imaging is the process of scanning paper documents and converting them to digital images that are then stored in an electronic format. This technology allows State agencies to create a paperless or less paper intensive certification process, cutting the expenses and space requirements associated with the storage and maintenance of paper documentation and increasing the efficiency of the certification process. This technology may be used to scan permanent verification documents (such as birth certificates or alien registration), temporary verification (such as wage stubs, rent receipts, or bank statements), or entire case records (including signed applications, periodic reports, or change reports).

Demonstrations for the Elderly and Disabled

The Elderly Simplified Application Project (ESAP) and the Standard Medical Deduction (SMD) are two demonstration projects that target the elderly (aged 60 years and over) and disabled low-income populations. The ESAP streamlines the application and certification process by waiving the recertification interview, utilizing data matches, and extending certification periods to 36 months. ESAPs serve elderly households with no earned income, and in some cases also include disabled households with no earned income.

SNAP households with elderly or disabled members are entitled to a deduction from their household income of allowable, out-of-pocket medical expenses incurred by these members that are in excess of $35/month. State agencies may request a demonstration waiver to establish a SMD for these households in lieu of calculating actual expenses however households still retain the option to claim actual medical expenses if they are higher than the SMD threshold. The SMD allows States to streamline administrative procedures and reduce the paperwork burden on seniors and disabled persons simplifies the process of claiming this deduction for vulnerable households.

Combined Application Project (CAP)

Combined Application Project (CAP) is a partnership between the Social Security Administration (SSA), FNS, and State and local agencies to streamline application procedures for individuals receiving SSI benefits. The projects are designed to strengthen access to nutrition benefits for this vulnerable population by streamlining the SNAP application process. There are two models for CAPs: standard and modified. A standard model includes simplified joint SNAP/SSI application processing by SSA as individuals apply for or are recertified for SSI. A modified model utilizes data from SSA for targeted SNAP outreach to eligible SSI households who are then sent applications. Both models rely on standardized benefits and shelter amounts and require evaluations to ensure cost neutrality is maintained. The existing CAP States are being provided for informational purposes; FNS and SSA are not soliciting proposals for new demonstrations of this type.

SNAP online applications can increase program access by providing more flexibility for households interested in applying for SNAP and renewing their benefits. There are 42 State agencies that provide SNAP applicants with the opportunity to apply for benefits online, while 29 State agencies allow SNAP participants to recertify or renew their benefits online.

Online Case Management

273.2(c)(1)

Online case management can provide support to the certification process in local offices by reducing the time case workers spend answering phone calls concerning application and benefit status information, and processing changes. Thirty-eight State websites allow clients to perform some case management tasks online, including viewing case information, reporting changes in factors that affect eligibility or benefit level, and/or uploading documents.

Call Centers

Call centers can provide support to the certification process in local offices by reducing the time local certification offices spend answering phone calls concerning general SNAP information, application and benefit status information, certification interviews, customer complaints, and processing changes. In some States, call centers go beyond these functions to directly certify and re-certify households. Call centers can help reduce errors caused by unreported changes, high workloads, and unanswered phone/voice mail messages. Benefits include task specialization, prompt customer service, self-service options, measurable work performance, dedicated phone lines, and one phone number for participants to remember. Additional information on call center functionality is available in the SNAP State Agency Profiles.

Mobile Technology

The use of mobile technology enables procedural changes that streamline the enrollment process, facilitate verification and reporting requirements, and reduce “churning.” According to a 2015 Pew Research study, low-income individuals are more likely to be “smartphone-dependent,” meaning these Americans own a cell phone, but lack access to other sources of high-speed internet at home and have limited options for going online other than their cell phone. Through the use of mobile technologies, States can provide better service and more readily reach populations that lack access to a personal computer, enhancing access for those who would otherwise be limited in their ability to access information and complete the certification process.
